

Smith Mall

- Located in Indianapolis, IN
- Owner: University of Indianapolis
- Renovation: 75 acres
- Project Description: Smith Mall is the “green heart” of the University of Indianapolis campus. It was incorporated following the removal of the central parking lot in response to the campus master plan developed by our firm in 1991. The mall consists of a long canal with wide steps leading from a depressed oval lawn to the still waters of the canal. An amphitheatre graces one corner of the center oval, and a base constructed of rough limestone and a “speakers platform” are at the east end of the library space.
